Here's How to Knock 500 Names from Your Christmas List

There is a way you can knock 500 names off your christmas shopping list for the price of one present.

One donation to The Daily Colonist 500 Fund will do the trick.

You don't know these 500, but they live all around you, limited a gray of your attention at Christmas fund-raising drive, then divided among the 500 neediest families in the area, as selected by the Christmas Burlected by the Christmas Burlected by the Christmas Burleau in co-operation with other welfare agencies.

Any size donation will do, but remember it must be split 500 ways. ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

PEOPLE should go to political meetings to learn, but they don't. Those who do attend meetings –a sadly diminished group, nowadays—go there for reassurance.

They go there to have their cherished beliefs confirmed.

The audience at a political meeting is much like a church congregation. It wants to believe. True, political meetings tolerate hecklers, whereas churches do not. But this is only a convention of

The hecklers are mainly the pious disciples of a hostile creed, who go there to dismay and frustrate the worshippers—as though a shock brigade of Buddhists were to invade a Moslem mosque and begin pelting the faithful with chunks of pork.

(I wouldn't advise any Buddhists to try it.)

The political hecklers go to the enemy meeting with minds made up, and leave with minds unchanged. So do the political worshippers. The rival factions understand each other; and they agree in their suspicion of anyone who is neutral, or

In the past, the same things could have been said of people's attitudes to newspapers. The papers were intensely partisan, and so were their readers.

Like the rival journals in the town of Eataanswill, as described by Charles Dickens, the newspapers were of one color. They were Blue, or they were Buff

The Buff citizen bought the Buff newspaper, so that he could chortle over it at the table, as he read articles that echoed—in more elegant words what he had been telling his wife about the election campaign.

Today's newspapers are closer to being impartial, but there still are some of them—especially in England—that make good profits by feeding prejudices-by telling the people what they want to

if people can not agree precisely where it is.

The opinion columns themselves are less partisan than they were in grandfather's day. Some newspapers now are truly independent. They try to approach a public issue with an open mind, weigh the arguments of all factions, and reach a con-clusion on nothing but the evidence.

When all newspapers are like that, and when people attend political meetings in the hope of really finding out what each party stands for, our government will be a far more efficient and sensitive instrument than it is now.

Elections then will be decided by reason, rather than by slogans and emotions. We will have a thinking man's election. Of course, it will never happen in this world. But it makes a nice dream.

Announced in Ottawa

Jets Kept Apart By Safety Rules

jet-age regulations for keep. high altitudes and airspeed and ing planes at a safe distance apart were announced by Transport Minister George Hees yesterday.

Hees said the new regulations were necessary because of the errors in aircraft alti-meters when the planes fly at high altitudes and jet speeds.

The revised system of altiprovides that planes in opposite directions should be separated vertically by at least 2,000 feet when they're flying higher than 23,000 feet. Below this altitude, the planes will have to be 1,000 feet apart.

When planes cross over the regular "controlled" air routes, they'll have to maintain a 500-foot clearance below 23,000 feet and stay 1,000 feet apart above that altitude.

Hees said the establishment of the 2,000-foot separation in the airspace above 23,000 feet was necessary because the altimeters in general use to-

Independent Inquiry

Minister Diefenbaker's P assurance to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce that the Chamber of Commerce that the cabinet is giving thorough examination to the proposal for an independent inquiry into governmental expenditures along the lines of the U.S. Hoover commission came promptly at the close of a meeting this week at which the Chamber had made that and other requests. The delegation said that such an inquiry could prove a useful guide to the administration, vested with responsibility for the expenditure of large sums through departmental control and under crown agencies for a growing variety of purposes in the heavy budgets of the day for defence and other needs.

Exhaustive study was being given to this suggestion, Mr. Diefenbaker said in the only immediate comment he made on the Chamber's brief as a whole. From the directness of this comment it seems apparent that the suggestion already has been discussed by the executive, and that some action on the proposal may follow.

Aside from partisan argument over governmental outlays at budget time, the public service of the nation has now grown so large and covers such a wide field of different operations that an independent inquiry into its coverage and the results ob-tained could prove useful and infor-Estimates are closely under the scrutiny of parliament. None Too Ready

THE set-up of the NATO forces in central Europe does not seem to be too good, judging by the remarks of their commander. For some unstated reason Belgian and Dutch troops are unusable, the French are elsewhere, there might be some delay before Pritich and Americans can before British and Americans can come up with reinforcements, and only the Germans are in the front line of defence.

That supposedly is where the Germans should be, since their country would be in the throes of any ry would be in the threes of any soviet military aggression in those parts. There is no good reason why German forces, even if bulwarked by the weight of NATO, shouldn't want to be first to strike a blow in defence of their own land.

No mention is made of the Canadian was the statement of the canadians.

dians, although one had always been-led to believe this country's compact brigade was one of the most ready components of the NATO military grouping. Perhaps they are up alongside the Germans and taken for granted.

Ironically enough the commander who cited these dispositions, or per-haps the lack of them, is a French air force general, and it is his own nation that causes the main gaps in NATO defence. The vast bulk of French military strength and effort is tied up in Algeria, where French honor and grandeur are seemingly so important as to leave the safety of its home front to others. Any break-through of the NATO ring would soon touch the homeland of France.

The cited "delay" of British and American troops reaching any point of combustion seems somewhat strange. It always takes time to move forces, but if the hiatus would be of undue length this would suggest they are not currently well deployed. Taken all round, the French compact have been very harmy party harmy wars harmy wars harmy. mander cannot have been very happy when he confided in a press confer-ence this week. If the situation is as fluid and unready as he suggests few others will be happy either.

It looks as though the military side of the NATO alliance is not very neatly composed, scarcely enough or amply positioned for the job it is supposed to be doing. Yet millions of combined allied dollars are being poured into this task of Western defence. One is apt to wonder per-haps what for.

That Two-Way Stretch

NEW automobile models 11/2 inches wider than the law of Ontario allows are causing quite a furore in the eastern province, where there is a strong body of opposition to any modification of the highway code simply to accommodate the whims of car designers. There is no such problem—at the moment—in British Columbia because here the maximum permissible width is 16 inches greater than that of Ontario.

The discussion now going on in east, however, is of interest to British Columbia and every other province because of the influence of automobile design on traffic prob-lems. Much has been written about the excessive length of modern cars and the bad effect of this on the allocation of parking space and also on movement in congested streets. Less has been said about the twoway stretch which is broadening cars as well as lengthening them.

Because of increased width and the platform-like appearance of the portion forward of the windshield, the modern car is becoming in one respect harder rather than easier to drive. In older times a driver could tell within an inch or so how much clearance he had on the right-hand side. Nowadays it is an exceptional driver indeed who can tell within two or three feet. Consequently, for safety's sake everything to the right has to be given a much wider berth. From the way most people drive modern cars it is obvious that they have only a vague idea where the right side is; thus when passing anything on the right they swing farther than necessary to the left. The habit is less noticeable where there are multiple traffic lines for guidance, but not all streets and highways have them. It is in this respect that the products of the drawing boards of Detroit come into conflict with public interest and policy, as is now the case in Ontario and could very well be the case in B.C. too if restraint is not applied in time. Left alone, the designers no doubt would try to put half a dozen passengers in comfort into the front seat, but the ultimate effect of doing so could only be to shrink the capacity of highways built at enormous public expense and mag-nify the hazards of driving on them.

West Must Retain Guard

By HAROLD MORRISON Canadian Press Staff Writer

PAUL HENRI SPAAK has put his I finger on what appears to be the real threat facing the North Atlantic Alliance—the danger that peaceful coexistence between East and West may lead to gradual disintegration of the 15-country defence pact. The NATO secretary-general is convinced peaceful coexistence is slowly be-coming a reality mainly because atomic nents and the alertness of both sides of the Iron Curtain have almost ruled out the possibility of any clear-cut military victory on either side. But the Belgian statesman, who reorted to NATO legislators in Washingion recently, is equally convinced that ssia can switch from friendship to cold war, or to hot war, at a moment's notice whenever it is to her advantage to do so. To let down the western guard during a period of peaceful coexistence might prove to be military suicide. And yet at a time when NATO commanders are asking for more equipment and men there is thought in Washington and elsewhere that perhaps the burden of European defence costs might be switched more to Paris, Bonn and London than to Washington and Ottawa.

"Look out," says Spaak. "I know the Western world well enough to know the moment public opinion has a true or false feeling that the danger of war is growing fainter, the first concern will e to cut down drastically on the military effort. This is undeniably a problem which is before us and a danger which is staring us in the face."

The problem of NATO is that it was born out of Western fear of a Communist attack. It visualized other fund ation among the NATO powers, but a decade of experience has shown it was mainly in the military field that NATO flourished and this because of great fi-mancial support by the United States. The fear of Communist invasion was

". . . of shoes and ships and sealing wax-of cabbages and kings." By TOM TAYLOR

SOMEONE suggests that all Canadians are refugees from more ancient lands, that because 40-odd ethnic groups abound there is no such thing as a Canadian, and that even a family rooted here for 300 years is not Canadian. One wonders then what it is; it certainly isn't British. French, German, Italian, et al. Presumably there has to be a time limit to the forging of a new na-tion, a point at which distinctive nationality emerges, but going back far enough all peoples could be classed as refugees. Peoples have moved in groups from one land to another as far back as history records, coalescing in new areas to form a new ethnic division. Three hundred years, or much less, should be enough to establish an identity.

How farcical it would be for a Canadian even of only three or four generations to describe himself as anything else but Canadian.

In his farewell sermon last Sunday Rev. Richard Welsh told his Cordova Bay parishioners it was more important to be a Christian than an Anglican. He was speaking to Anglicans but this tenet applies all round, to all denominations. There is room for them all, and while rightly a person will prefer his own brand of faith none is superior to the other.

ome members of some denominations think theirs is the only road to Heaven and that they alone are the Lord's annointed. That is spiritual arrogance, as unpleasant a snobbery as its social counterpart. * * *

Cemeteries are proper places nowadays, with never an epitaph that departs from the decorous. It is in the older burial grounds that one finds a freer expression of sentiment, as

Until he went to London last August an Esquimalt reader had ondered how Scotland Yard got its name. His brother is an inspector there, so he found out that the "Yard" in Whitehall is on the site of a palac used when on a visit by the Kings of Scotland before the union of the crowns, and called Scotland. The courtyard was later used by Sir Christopher Wren and known as Scotland Yard, When the present pòlice HQ was built in 1890 it got its current designation, New Scotland

This hasn't been secret information but some other readers may have wondered about the name so I pass my correspondent's discovery

If you want to be spry and active at 80 years of age here as a guide is the routine of an octogenarian friend

He begins of a morn by reading a selected portion of the Bible. Then he takes his exercises, to wit: In his bedroom he lies on his back on a folded rug and raises his legs 15 times; reverses by raising his body hand behind back, not head; next he turns over and raises his chest from the floor 15 times. These operations are done slowly, with an occasional dog-like stretch. Once a week he climbs the small hill behind his house. His only drink is tea without sugar sharp at 4 p.m. every day. He still is able to walk up steep hills and climb steep mountain trails.

There is no need to wait until you are 80, of course. You can start this medicine at 50, even at 40 indeed!

International Commentary

Britain and West Germany

DR. Adenauer's visit to London has been in many ways the counterpart of Mr. Selwyn Lloyd's visit to Paris a week earlier. This has of course been a top level meeting. The talks have been between the Heads of Government as well as between Foreign Ministers. But the purpose has been the same.

There has been no attempt to reach definite agreements on any subject, to enter on negotiations, or to resolve specific divergences on this or that question of policy.

The Federal Chancellor before leaving Bonn for London summed up the object. It was to "reach agreement on differences of views over particular problems" and "to achieve a friendly relationship and co-operate in a spirit of unanimity." Mr. Macmillan could have used the same words. .

It goes without saying that there are between the United Kingdom and the Federal Republic conflicting opinions on a number of current and important issues-as indeed there are between the U.K. and France. This is inevitable between any two free Govthey may be. What is essential between the Allies is that all such differences shall be discussed and if possible resolved in a spirit of mutual understanding and mutual confidence. The object of these talks has been to create or rather to restore that spirit, And that has I feel confident, been achieved.

The need for it has become only too evident. It would be pointless and unhelpful to attempt to apportion responsibility for the estrange-ment of the past months. That estrangement has indeed been much exaggerated. As Dr. Adenauer has said it need not perhaps be "taken too seriously." But it has existed and needed to be dealt with if things were not to get worse.

As always in such cases the root cause has been quite literally "misunderstanding"-failure on each side to appreciate the reasons and motives the other's attitude. Misunderstanding breeds misrepresentation and suspicion. For example, there has been much misunderstanding in Britain of Dr. Adenauer's attitude to the Summit: in Germany of Mr. Macmillan's attitude. There have been fears here the Federal Chancellor was rigidly opposed to any effort to achieve a detente with the Soviet Union on German questions. There have been fears in Germany that the British Government might be prepared to secure one at Germany's expense, even by the sacrifice of what in German eyes are essential principles.

by Giles

There have been suspicions in Germany that the British attitude towards the Common Market is in some way inspired by a dislike of the whole conception of European unity. There has been insufficient appreciation of the special position of Britain. For a complex of reasonsgeographical, historical, economic the U.K. cannot either be wholly separate from Continental Europe or wholly an "integral" part of it,

These are perfectly genuine reasons.

But failure to understand them has led to an imputation of motives which simply do not exist. In these matters—and one could add half a dozen others — such estrangement as there has been in these past months between the United Kingdom and Western Germany has not been caused by any real conflict of interest, or even of policy. It has been almost entirely a result - quite literally - of mutual misunderstandings. These things happen. They hap-pen between allies. They happen between friends. They happen inside families. Misunderstandings unchecked can widen into serious rifts. History is full of dangerous rifts which need never have occurred at

And the only way to get rid of misunderstanding is - in an English phrase to "have them out." That is the real value—and it is an incalculably important one of talks like those which have been the reason for Dr. Adenauer's visit to London. The more we have of them the better for

Castro Disowns Santa

SANTA CLAUS has withstood attacks upon him in the past; he will undoubtedly survive the latest ban against him by Fidel Castro.

Traditionally, the Cuban mid-win-ter holiday is Epihany on Jan. 6, but Dec. 25 with all the Christmas trimmings has become popular over the years. This year, "the year of Cuban liberation," the revolutionary government has decreed that Santa Claus, deer and sleighs are alien.

Such an extremist view is discouraging tourism; steamship companies are eliminating Havana from winter

The bearded Castro, of all people, should be able to understand Santa. All the Cuban chief needs to look like jolly Father Christmas is to sprinkle some powder on his beard. Then, in the event he loses his present post, he could apply for the job of walking up and down in front of T. Eater Company during the Christmas sea-

Is Santa alien to Cuban children? Cuban or Canadian, Santa is as real in a child's mind as poetry, love and friendship. No adult sophistication can ever hope to refute a child's simple faith.

Washington Angle

Under New Management By WILLIAM S. WHITE

THE force long-called "Dewey Republicanism"—the Eastern-based and relatively liberal party wing that has controlled every national Republican convention since 1940—is under the most definitely new kind of management. The old boss, Thomas E. Dewey, had enormous skill as a political tac tician. He had great administrative ability. But he had a fatal shortcoming. Either he never could really like people in the mass, or he never could appear to like them.

It is early to estimate the new boss, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. But some things already can be said with con fidence. If not vet the master tactician, Rockefeller has developed into a very creditable one. He is not far behind Dewey in administrative know-how. And Rockefeller really likes people, practically all of them

Here is a man who returns beaming and buoyant from the most exworkers and voters, as in his recent trip to the West Coast. To nearly any other politician it could hardly have been a happy journey. For Rockefeller was confronted with a forest of Nixon buttons. Their wear-ers did not boo "Rocky." But they made it all too plain that they were now backing his rival for next year's Presidential nomination. Vice-Presient Richard Nixon.

From such an experience Dewey would have recoiled in gloomy dis pleasure. Rockefeller, for his part, sees this sortie not as a misfortune but as a positive gain. To adopt so optimism. This quality Rockefeller surely has and it infects all those

A later column will explore the positions likely to be taken by Rockefeller in the months ahead. For the moment the purpose is mainly to report on the vast change in "Dewey Republicanism" since Rockefeller be came its head man.

Dewey for years controlled the GOP apparatus in New York with an. olute toughness that was frankly exhibited. There never was a moment when dislike of him was not strong also never was a moment when respect for his competence and strength was lacking.

Rockefeller in first ascending to the top had a reverse problem. Practically every Republican liked him But many Republicans questioned his capacity to run New York Republicanism. He has now set these de at rest. And this, so far as 1960 is cerned, is the big news from New

Dewey mastered the Republican organization, by teiling people what to do—and no nonsense about it. Rocke-feller has mastered it by persuading them what they should do. He is cer-tainly no abler a leader than was Dewey. But he is in much better position nationally, because he really kes the crowd-and the crowd really reading Lord Alanbrooke's recent confidences, I was delighted with his reference to General Eisenhower playing golf at Rheims during the height of the final battles of the war. And why not?

Are we supposed to believe that all our generals, Alanbrooke himself, Churchill, all spent five years crouched at their desks. ones to their ears, begrudging even the hours of sleep? No more than we are expected to believe that our soldiers, sailors, airmen, spent all their time in battle.

War is not like that, and it is silly of diary-keepers to try to pretend it was. War, as we who were in it know, consists largely of doing nothing, and trying to find something to do to break the withering tedium.

Therefore, it was a let-down to read the prompt denial from Washngton, declaring that while General Eisenhower spent some time at a headquarters at Rheims located on a former golf course crowded with army huts, he never so much as held a putter in his hands.

For it was a pleasure to feel that President Eisenhower really is a golfer, not a golf stooge built up by publicity men. It used to infuriate sportsmen to see the pictures of the late President Coolidge, dressed up in outdoor clothes obviously borrowed an hour before from a haberdasher, awkwardly holding a fishing rod and exhibiting a big stiff fish he was sup-posed to have just caught. The vapidest gimmick in the political world is to try to show the public man as a sportsman and not a back-

So if you don't mind, I am going continue to imagine that General Eisenhower did sneak out son dewy morning, before his own diary keepers were up, and swatted one ball, just one, three hundred yards down between the huts on that forsaken Rheims golf links.

Positive Step

I would like to refer you to a statement made by the Commission on Chronic Diseases, which was founded jointly by the American Hospital Association, American Medical Association, and American Public Health Association, dated March 17, 1954. "This commission after much research urges American communities to adopt this public health measure as a positive step in the prevention of the chronic disease—dental decay."

I hope this declaration by this commission will allay the fears of the many elderly people of this area who have been wondering about the effects of fluoridation on older people. Surely they will not deny this health benefit to the thousands of young people of Greater Victoria. ERIC L. MALLETT.

Beltline Buses

An item in the Colonist informs us that the experi-mental malls in Toledo, Ohio, have been discontinued after a three and a half months' test.

From my own brief observation in August of this most interesting experiment, and from what I have read, this innovation was successful—during the summer months. The fact that the downtown malls have now been made into regular streets again would indicate that it was doubtful if the malls would have been popular during the winter months.

I would suggest that further study be given to any proposals for malls to be installed in downtown Victoria. Two other projects should have priority. Firstly, a major street plan should be devised by competent town planning consultants. Secondly as suggested in the excellent consultants. Secondly as suggested in the excellent editorial in the Colonist, belt bus lines should be tried out in the business area.

I would suggest that two belt lines running in opposite directions be tried out here in Victoria with a fare of 10c without transfers. The north and south line would run from Superior to Hillside on Douglas and Government streets. The east and west belt line would run from Douglas to Belmont Avenue on Fort Street and Pandora Aver LINN A. GALE.

Missing the Point

The type of reasoning regarding the fluorine content of tea shows a lamentable lack of understanding of the biochemistry of fluorides. The point so many miss is that the quantity (ppm) of fluorine is relatively unimportant for its action in the body depends more upon what other elements such as calcium, magnesium, etc. (found abundantly in hard water), are present with the fluorine. This is borne out by the fact that in some places even 7 ppm fluorides has resulted in a high degree of mottling, brittleness and early decay; while in some other places having as high as 2 ppm there is surprisingly little fluorine effect, because the fluorides in the water are already in combination with other elements—mainly calcium.

Victoria is known for its soft water. Fluorine here at 1 ppm will have a worse effect than most places for the raw sodium fl. will not find sufficient calcium in the water to combine and will rob our bones and teeth to effect its own stabilization. (Mrs.) M. BEATON.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A judge has granted a dying 91-year-old man $1,500 a month from the estate of his wife, who left him $1 and willed two-thirds of her $900,000 estate as a memorial to a dog.

Superior Court Judge Timothy I. Fitzpatrick awarded the monthly allowance Wednesday to Arthur Bachman, who is confined to a Santa Barbara hospital with an incurable disease.

Bachman's late wife of 60 years left $600,000 of her estate to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to build and maintain an animal shelter.

Mrs. Bachman's dog, Bingoh, preceded her in death by 20 years and she carried his ashes around

Alcan Sells To Red China

MONTREAL (CP) -- Aluminum Company of Canada has sold about 5,000 tons of alum-inum to Red China this year and hopes to make additional sales there.

A company spokesman said the sales "have been made on a spot basis in the last four or five months."

This was a reversal of the company's policy last winter when it was felt that such sales were undesirable.

But relations had become less strained in recent months and the Canadian government and the Canadian government now favored peaceful trade. An export permit was issued by the federal trade depart-ment for the aluminum sales. In reference to the company's position regarding further sales prospects, the spokesman said: "The sales made were not on a long contract basis. If they want more, we will supply it. This is a competitive business however, and it all depends on the market situation."

Two aldermen who criticized the closure were Earle Adams and Frank Baker.

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)-The federal government plans to use a heavy concentration of icebreakers to ensure that shipping on the St. Lawrence River and Quebec's north shore will remain open this winter, Transport Minister George Hees indicated last night.

Mr. Hees, who arrived here from a visit of harbor installa-tions in the Maritime pro-vinces, said the department of transport will maintain eight icebreakers on duty to keep the St. Lawrence and north shore ports free from ice.

The main objective of the winter operations will be the ports of north shore from the Quebec Bridge to the gulf.

FOUR REASONS

Oliver gives four reasons for Oak Bay's repeated win-

1. Oak Bay's rugby tradition. (The school presently has two senior and two junior teams with approximately 80 boys competing.)

2. Emphasis on rugby in physical education periods.

3. Willingness of staff mem-results in large game turnouts. "We've been very fortunate to have strong junior players ready to fill positions left open by graduating members. De-velopment of junior players is one of our strongest points," says Oliver.

"Members of the staff have been instrumental in building our teams. Our principal, C. A. Gibbard, and our vice-prin-Barman's Son Banned cipal, J. G. Wallace, are among the team's strongest sup-

Texas Clinches Cotton Bowl Bid

Texas, Virginia Military Institute, Pennsylvania and—most of all North Carolina—scored the big vic-tories Thursday as Thanksgiving Day football games decided entries for two major post-season bowl games

Texas, trailing until the final quarter, pulled out a 20-17 decision over Texas and M and earned a share of chance to tie North Texas the Southwest Conference State and Houston for the Mistitle and host spot in the Cot-ton Bowl game. Penn, likewise a trailer, overcame its ancient rival Cornell 28-13 to win the Ivy League champion-ship and VMI whipped Vir-ship and VMI whipped Virginia Tech 37-12 in a head-on clash for the Southern Conference championship.

North Carolina, its title as-pirations long since blunted, ever in their backyard battle place behind Clemson in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

POSSIBLE TIE

The Southwest Conference race won't end until Saturday, shot at a tie for first place, but the Texas victory Thurs-day made sure the Longhorns will play Syracuse in the Cotton Bowl and Arkansas will go to the Gator Bowl. Each finished with 5-1 conference records, a mark TCU can equal by beating Southern Methodist Saturday. But in the case of ties, the team away from the Cotton Bowl the longest gets the bid.

In anticipation, Arkansas had conditionally accepted the Gator Bowl invitation and TCU had agreed to play in the Dec. 19 Bluebonnet Bowl. In other holiday games,

Garden Notes

Don't Junk That Coldfrai

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

When moving from one home to another, quite often an excellent cold-frame is found tucked away in a sunny corner of the new garden. Its new owner soon learns to make good use of the frame for starting seeds in early spring, but it will usually stand empty through the winter, either because the owner doesn't know what to do with it, or because he hasn't learned how to manage it he hasn't learned how to manage it properly.

For winter use, such a frame must be of good solid construction, of course, absolutely sound and in good repair. A flimsy, ramshackle affair, with broken panes of glass, cracked and filthy, and much of the paint flaking off, is no good at all for cold weather work.

The fancy ready-made frames with lass sides are not so hot, either, as glass walls do not retain enough warmth. Brick, concrete, concrete block and heavy wood walls are all good, and I have even seen a cozy and efficient frame built from stacked squares of sod. A coldframe is cold in the sense that it is not heated artificially, and all its coziness and warmth must be secured from the sun. For this reason, the frame must be sited in a sunny place, preferably with a bit of shelter of some kind from the prevailing wind, and the glass covers or "lights" must be kept scrupulously clean in order to admit the maximum amount of sunlight.

With the air and soil within the frame warmed by the sun, every effort must be made to retain that heat and prevent its loss to the outside. Lights must be tight and well-fitting, and free from cracked or broken panes.

The walls can be insulated by banking up with sawdust, straw, leaves, cinders, or even soil. Warmth can be prevented from oozing away downward through the soil by putting down a 2-inch layer of sand or fine gravel plus a 3-inch layer of straw before adding the soil or ashes which will constitute the floor of the frame.

The glass "lights" serve a useful purpose only when the sun is shining.

and at night, the greatest loss of warmth will be through those self-same glass coverings. For this reason, coldframes should always be covered at suadown with a bit of old carpet, a blanket, or some such insulating material. One neighbor of mine stuffs old fertilizer sacks with shavings and uses these for covering the glass at night.

With a good ash bottom, such a frame can be employed between November and March for overwintering cuttings of the hardier bedding plants such as pansies and violas, as well as boxes of autumn-sown seed-as well as boxes of autumn-sown seed-lings of snapdragons, onions and lettuce. It will also be most useful for storing pots of flowering bulbs during their cold rooting period. Filled with good rich soll, it can be planted up with vegetable seed-lings such as Brussels sprouts and cauliflower. It could be devoted en-tirely to producing a crop of violets, or for wintering chrysanthemum stools. Some varieties of lettuce. or for wintering chrysanthenum stools. Some varieties of lettuce, carrot, radish and the little table turnip may be sown directly in the

TV Turkeys Fit for Axe

NEW YORK (UPI) - Thanks to science, bigger, fatter and meatier turkeys are headed for the Thanks-giving Day tables.

I don't know who to thank, however, when it comes to TV turkeys, of which there have been some mighty plump specimens this season.

The blue ribbon turkey, in my scorecard, was "The Jazz Singer," starring Jerry Lewis. But the turkeys that trotted right along behind it in-cluded the Louis Jourdan special, the Milton Berle special with Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Victor Borge's Copen-hagen Special and the Bobe Hope show with the four Crosby boys.

But if you're shopping around for turkey, it's not necessary to wait for the specials. Each night of the week, some newly-hatched, ponderous turkeys gobble up some of TV's prime time. Here are the candidates for this nedigraed harnward. pedigreed barnyard:

Monday — Bourbon Street Beat; Adventures in Paradise.

Tuesday-Dennis O'Keefe 'Show:

Wednesday - Hawaiian Eye; Wichita Town. Thursday-Betty Hutton Show;

Johnny Ringo. Firday—Rawhide; Hotel de Paree. Saturday—Five Fingers; Bonanza and the Man and the Challenge. Sunday-Riverboat; The Alaskans.

Officially, the trail ends next week for NBC-TV's daytime quiz show, Treasure Hunt. Actually, the show died weeks ago.

The recent congressional investigation of TV quiz shows touched off a wave of no-interest in Treasure Hunt on the part of sponsors. And Jan Murray, the emcee and owner of the program, found himself meeting with the district attorney and the NBC brass. I have no doubt that as the program now stands, it is absolutely honest. The reason is that you can't fool around much with nothing, and nothing happens on the show.

Wednesday for example, Murray kidded around with a winner for nearly 15 minutes before he could bring himself to open a treasure chest and show the man what he had won on last Friday's show. I know many shows are nothing but time-killers, but this is carrying it to an extreme. Incidentally, the contestant gave Murray a gift during the show—it was a wash cloth for getting at the spine—and I conjured up a new TV format in which the plain people go on and try to outdo each other

TV format in which the plain people go on and try to outdo each other with zany gifts for the emcee.

* * *

While the loss of Treasure Hunt is not too hard to bear, I note that the replacement will be Play Your Hunch, a Goodson Todman game show that has kicked around the networks before. Therefore the little in the content of the process of the people were little in the people were the process of the people were little in the people were the works before. There's very little to indicate that daytime viewers are out of the nursery school class when you compare "Hunt" and "Hunch."

Brave Liberace to Brave London

NEW YORK—Liberace is a brave man. He is going back to London in March and will stay 10 weeks. Lee is to appear at the London Palladium again, and he has rented one of Mrs. Michael Wilding's entrancing apartments.

I joined Susan and Michael Wilding for coffee at 21 here. It was Susan's birthday. There was a cake with one candle. "But please don't march in with it," she begged the brothers, uncles and nephews who own and run the popular place. The restaurant was really "jumping" with big names in entertainment and industry.

Jackie Gleason was holding forth in one corner—he's a refugee currently from Toots Shors, waiting for the new Toots to be ready for eatin', drinkin' etc.

Claudette Colbert was lunching with her long-time buddy, Jack Benny—it's a ritual whenever both are in New York.

Herbert Yates, who used to own Republic Studios in Hollywood, before MCA and then Dick Powell moved in with their television companies, was lunching with his Between the steak and the stewed fruit, I heard that Beverly Aadland had cut a gay swath through Manhattan recently, garbed in things like gold cloth Capri pants, and whooping it up generally; when Diana Barrymore saw her at El Morocco, Diana quipped: "When she gets over the mourning period, she'll be a million laughs."

That attractive English actor, Trevor Howard, is in New York for a television show, and to prepare for his play with Sir Laurence Olivier which has a cast of only four. Trevor was so good in "The Key" with Sophia Loren.

Lots of movies now being filmed or prepared for locationing here. There's the new Billy Wilder film with Shirley MacLaine, Fred MacMurray, etc., "The Apartment," for United Artists; 20th Century-Fox's "From the Terrace" with Joanne Woodward and Paul Newman; Metro's "Butterfield 8" with Elizabeth Taylor.

With one more spot, North might have found a response other than two spades, but he rightly figured that, unless South could move, his side could probably not make a game. As things were, of course, he need not have worried, as opener had a power-house.

and realized that his contract would be in danger if the diamond ace were off-side and East gained the lead. He was also aware of the old rule: "Eight ever, and nine never." referring to a suit-holding of nine cards including the accking. According to this rule, you should play for the drop of the queen with nine of a suit, and finesse for that card with only eight. However, under the specific circumstances, South correctly decided to break the general rule. He led a low spade to dummy's king and finessed the jack on the way back. Even if West had the queen, he could not hurt declarer.

Now watch what happens if South does not finesse. Naturally, declarer would attempt to shed a diamond on dummy's long club. But East would ruff the third club and return a diamond; South would lose three diamonds and the contract.

B.C. Labor Strife Taken in Stride By Boom Economy

British Columbia has had a buoyant economy of record proportions this year despite the number of labor disputes, Attorney-General Bonner said Thursday.

"The province's labor in-come is expected to reach $1,800,000 by the end of the year and there is talk of it hitting the $2,000,000 mark within the next year or 18 nonths," Mr. Bonner, who oubles as trade and industry minister, told a Kiwanis Club

ENTHUSIASTIC

Mr. Bonner was enthusiastic

He said that the amount of money earned in B.C. for the first seven months of the year is 9.7 per cent above the sam seven months last year.

"And yet with all the talk of inflation, figures show that the value of the dollar dropped by only half a cent in the last year," he said.

FEW BRUISES

He explained that this stability is reflected despite labor which, if anything, beld back inflation.

"We have emerged from the recession with surprisingly few bruises," he said.

Despite the bright outlook for 1960, however, there was still a big problem that high interest rates might stifle the recovery, he added.

City Council

Yesterday 'No' Day

It was "no" day in city council yesterday.

Ald. D. J. Proudfoot suggested that a number of polling stations, instead of just one central polling place, be used in the Dec. 10 election. He was told no, it was too late.

11 quor licences at Thetis, Beaver and Elk Lakes and Mount Douglas Park shall be dealt with on their merits by the parks administrator and city manager, with the right of appeal to parks committee.

Ald. Elmer McEwen sug-pested that the city should sell londs "like the PGE bonds" to ts citizens to borrow money more cheaply for local im-provements. His suggestion appeared to fall flat.

Ald. M. H. Mooney proposed that the parking lot on the market building site be operated, for a trial period of at least six months, without parking meters. No one would second his motion.

However, city council did: • Give unanimous support to the Victoria Hotel Association brief to the provincial government seeking an increase from the present "smali" $209,000 budget of the B.C. Travel Bureau—Ald. Mc-Ewen objected to "puny"—to at least $500,000, with $250,000 earmarked for advertising rmarked for advertising roughout the year in mass

Challenger Fails To Back Charges By R. O. MARRION

City council temporarily took on the atmosphere of an election forum yesterday when incensed aldermen took exception to the tactics of mayoralty candidate J. Donald Smith.

First Ald-Dowell, then Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow who was refused a chance to answer Mr. Smith at the Victoria Civic Voters' Association

Failed to Show Up

It was "most unfortunate," he said, that a man campaigning for the high office of mayor of the city, having made allegations, failed to show up to "substantiate these wild statements implying suspicion regarding dishonesty.

It was "most unfortunate," his irresponsible statements." He still challenged anyone to appear, he said, who could show the slightest proof of any skulduggery pertaining to anything that had happened in his nine-year term of office. Then Ald. Edgelow teed off. Mr. Smith he said had not

Then Ald. Edgelow teed off.
Mr. Smith, he said, had not honesty.
"I feel Smith—I hate to say this word, I really do—he's really I think just lacking in guts, or ability to substantiate Mayor Percy Scurrah.

Mr. Smith, he said, had not wanted the public at his meeting to "hear the other side."
"He sure didn't," contributed Mayor Percy Scurrah.

Didn't Check Facts

low, Mr. Smith had mentioned was something funny, he said, that there had been some funny business about the sale of city-owned Kingston Street approaching the mayor or property; if he had checked the facts he would have known that it was put up for sale and sessed value of property which advertised, and bids came in would be taken off the tax

Mr. Smith had said parking for 97 more cars would cost bidder at $32,100.

Would Cost $520,000

The facility would provide parking for 325 cars and including property—at last year's prices—would cost $520.000. The net gain in parking spaces considering the facilities alone and not the mall plan would be 207 spaces, he said. And considering the replacement of some long-term parking by short-term parking, the facility would give an increase of more than 1,400 parking space uses a day.

Knights of Old Tough, Cold!

By JIM TAYLOR

Hey, buddy. You wanna buy a suit? It's crease resistant, wears like iron, and you can have it for $1,500. I'd buy it myself, but I tried it on yesterday and it's a little too tight in the helmet.

Actually, it's a suit of armor, bought at a Victoria auction this week to add to the atmosphere at King Arthur's Round Table restaurant. Having always been a sucker for a new set of threads, I thought I would try it on even it it is I would try it on, even if it is second-hand by about 600 years.

JUST RIVETS

After all, you wouldn't have to cart it to the dry cleaners every day. It's sort of wash and wear, with little or no ironing and no buttons to sew on. Just rivets.

But there are drawbacks to out there are drawbacks to cast-iron clothing, as I found out after I got into it with the help of two men. When they dropped the lid on the helmet, I felt a sudden, sympathetic kinship for the lowly sardine. COULDN'T MOVE

Then there was the matter of mobility. Maybe knights used to chase dragons, but loaded down with 50 pounds of scrap-iron I couldn't have moved to chase Lady Guinivere herself. No wonder knighthood died out. McVie Photos NO PANTS

No question about it though, knights were certainly bold. On checking a slight draft to the stern, I discovered armordoesn't come equipped with pants. This probably explains why knights spent so much time on horseback.

Privilege To Be British

Citizens of the British Commonwealth are given greater individual rights than those of any other nation, Judge G. W. McPhee said at the annual Scout dinner of Victoria district last night. Despite all the pomp and pageantry found in England, "there is a democracy second to none today," he said.

In our present world con-flicts, the force of good and peace must eventually prevail, he added.

H. D. C. Hunter was appointed president of the Victoria District Council. Other officers appointed by the provincial council include C. W. Nash and D. G. Frizzell

C. W. Nash and D. G. Frizzell as vice-presidents, and C. F. Swannell, treasurer.

Executive committee members are J. Batey/E. C. Brown, S. T. FitzPatrick, R. O. Gunning, R. L. V. Jermain, J. R. Lemieux, W. Maddock, T. G. Megaw, C. A. Perry, V. A. Ridgway and W. E. Whitley.

The new regional council Ridgway and W. E. Whitley.

The new regional council will be responsible for organization of scouting south of the Malahat and the organizing of eight district councils to assist groups in boys' work.

During the past year 113 uniformed members enrolled in the Victoria area making a total of 2.794 cubs, scouts, rover scouts and leaders.

Canada's Voice To Be Heard

Affairs Minister Green made clear yesterday that Canada intends to make itself heard in Western preparations for East-West summit meetings, of which he said there may be

He said the big Western owers should keep the NATO council in their confidence while planning for the summit.
The Atlantic alliance, said
Mr. Green, endows "a source of mutual confidence and responsibility for the vital East-West negotiations lying ahead which no member, by itself, could have attained."

boy with no previous acting experience has won coveted title role in the DuPont Show of the Mo adaptation of Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist" which will be present-ed Dec. 4 at 7.30 p.m. on Channels 7 and 12. Clark, a seventh grade student at St. John's Cathedral Choir School, auditioned for the role when a call went out to all school directors in New York for a student that answered the Dickens' description of Oliver Twist and who could speak with an English accent.

John McGiver will play Mr. Bumble, the bullying official of the parish workhouse which is orphaned Oliver's first home

Robert Morley will portray Mr. Brownlow, the kindly gentleman who wants to adopt Oliver. Other leading roles will be filled by Inga Swenson, Eric Portman and Nancy Wickwire.

Byelection Surprise

Socred Wins In Manitoba

Liberals Win One, Tories Two

WINNIPEG (CP) - A Social Credit candidate won a surprise victory while the Progressive Conservatives retained two seats and lost one to the Liberal-Progressives in four Manitoba byelections

Jacob M. Froese became the only Social Credit member of the 57-seat Manitoba legislature with a victory in the southern riding of Rhineland, formerly held by a Liberal-Progressive who first was elected as a Conservative.

The Progressive Conserva-tive government of Premier Duff Roblin retained the Cypress seat with the election of Mrs. Thelma Forbes, who became the only woman mem-ber of the legislature. They also won in Arthur where J. Douglas Watt was the success ful candidate.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR However, the Liberal-Progressives gained Turtle Mountain from the Conservatives, Mayor E. I. Dow of Boissevaln Mayor E. I. Dow of Boissevain defeating Progressive Conservative R. C. (Bob) Aitkens. The seat had been held by Public Works Minister Errick F. Willis, who held the seat from 1936 until he resigned this fall to become lieutenant-governor of the province. Standing in the legislature now is: Progressive Conservative 35, Liberal-Progressive 11, CCF 10. Social Credit 1.

Incorporation Beat By 74.21 Per Cent

View Royal voters turned thumbs down yesterday on a proposal to give the district village status, crushing the referendum, 535-186. at the polls.

Final count showed 74.21 per cent of the 721 voters who turned out were against the proposal, compared to 25.79 per cent for it. The referendum needed 60 per cent approval to pass.

View Royal will thus remain under the jurisdiction and direction of the provincial government, as it has been in the past.

Members of the counter petition committee, jubilant over their decisive victory, mmediately issued this statement through secretary Thomas Ord:

"Thank you, one and all, for wonderful turnout. Thanks to the people who volunteered their cars and time to transport voters to the polls, and to everyone who spoke in agreement with the counter

"It must be understood from the landslide vote that the people of View Royal certain ly wish to remain under the supervision of the provincial government. The government will certainly think twice next time before it spends any money allowing a few men to of Vancouver Island into village, which couldn't be possible for quite a few years to

A. W. Bradfield, head of the committee behind the move to incorporate, took the defeat philosophically.

"Naturally, we are disappointed," he said. "But at the same time we are pleased that so many turned out to vote (721 out of a possible 1,028). It was conducted in democratic fashion, and now we know for fashion, and now we know for sure what the voters really want."

Shipbuilding Crisis Sparks Ottawa Trip

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor
Tom Alsbury will lead a delegation to Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa Monday to warn the government of an impending unemple of point crisis in the west coast ship-building industry.

Tom Alsbury will lead a delegation which has members in Burnaby, North and West Vancouver, New Westminster and Vancouver.

A brief to be presented warns that unless the government takes action, unemployment in the shipbuilding yards will reach an all-time low in the near future. (Victoria citizens presented a similar brief some months ago.)

Famed Flier Overdue After Record

With G. E. Mortimore

PEOPLE should go to political meetings to learn, but they don't. Those who do attend meetings a sadly diminished group, nowadays—go there for reassurance.

They go there to have their cherished beliefs

The audience at a political meeting is much like a church congregation. It wants to believe. True, political meetings tolerate hecklers, whereas churches do not. But this is only a convention of

The hecklers are mainly the pious disciples of a hostile creed, who go there to dismay and frustrate the worshippers—as though a shock brigade of Buddhists were to invade a Moslem mosque and begin pelting the faithful with chunks of pork.

(I wouldn't advise any Buddhists to try it.)

The political hecklers go to the enemy meeting with minds made up, and leave with minds unchanged. So do the political worshippers. The rival factions understand each other; and they agree in their suspicion of anyone who is neutral, or undecided.

In the past, the same things could have been said of people's attitudes to newspapers. The papers were intensely partisan, and so were their readers.

Like the rival journals in the town of Eataanswill, as described by Charles Dickens, the newspapers were of one color. They were Blue, or they

The Buff citizen bought the Buff newspaper, so that he could chortle over it at the table, as he read articles that echoed—in more elegant words—what he had been telling his wife about the election

Today's newspapers are closer to being impartial, but there still are some of them—especially in England—that make good profits by feeding prejudices—by telling the people what they want to know.

A newspaper is divided in two main partsfacts and opinions. One may shade into the other; but the existence of a boundary is recognized, even if people can not agree precisely where it is.

The opinion columns themselves are less par-

The opinion columns themselves are less partisan than they were in grandfather's day. Some newspapers now are truly independent. They try to approach a public issue with an open mind, weigh the arguments of all factions, and reach a conclusion on nothing but the evidence.

When all newspapers are like that, and when people attend political meetings in the hope of really finding out what each party stands for, our reversement will be a far more efficient and sensi-government will be a far more efficient and sensi-tive instrument than it is now.

RUST IN PEACE

Getting dressed was easy compared with getting out. In fact, there was some doubt for a while that I'd make jit. The chef was muttering something about can-openers, and I had sisons of spending my life propped against a wall, rusting in peace while tourists carved their initials on my breast-plate.

FINAL SUCCESS

But my coming out was finally a success. I emerged, shaken and ready to take the rest of the day off.

Being a sardine does things to a man.

Hey, buddy. You wanna buy a suit?
It's crease resistant, wears like iron, and you can have it for $1,500. I'd buy it myself, but I tried it on yesterday and it's a little too tight in the helmet. Actually, it's a suit of armor, bought at a Victoria auction this week to add to the at-mosphere at King Arthur's Round Table restaurant. Hav-ing always been a sucker for I would try it on, even if it is second-hand by about 600 years. JUST RIVETS

After all, you wouldn't have to cart it to the dry cleaners every day. It's sort of wash and wear, with little or no ironing and no buttons to sew on. Just rivets. But there are drawbe out there are drawbooks to cast-iron clothing, as I found out after I got into it with the help of two men. When they dropped the lid on the helmet, I felt a sudden, sympathetic kinship for the lowly sardine. COULDN'T MOVE

Then there was the matter of mobility. Maybe knights used to chase dragons, but loaded down with 50 pounds of scrap-iron I couldn't have moved to chase Lady Guinivere herself. No wonder knighthood died out.

No question about it though, knights were certainly bold. On checking a slight draft to the stern, I discovered armor doesn't come equipped with pants. This probably explains why knights spent so much time on horseback.
